In just a few days, the IASA will welcome the insurance industry to our 74th Annual Conference and Business Show, featuring over 100 technical sessions and more than 250 vendor exhibits. This much-anticipated event is the largest educational forum exclusively for insurance, financial, and technology professionals.

As you prepare to join us at the show, we also want you to consider that membership in the IASA has many benefits (in addition to discounted registration for the conference) you can receive from no other industry association or organization, including, access to our members-only website (www.iasa.org), a subscription to the Interpreter, publication and product discounts, and much more.

The members-only website features a member search, a chapter section, a robust speakers bureau, a section highlighting current industry news, and a place to store and update your professional profile as a member of the IASA. Your subscription to the Interpreter offers you the opportunity to hear about happenings within the association, like new product offerings, textbook promotions, conference updates, and chapter news. And, coming soon on www.iasa.org, look for Member Forums, where you can easily ask other members questions and/or give advice on any industry topic, and Distance Learning opportunities as well.

With all these benefits, and discounted registration for the annual conference, available as part of your membership package, you couldn't ask for more bang for your company's buck. Stop by the IASA booth at the show to update your current member profile (and receive a free gift) or become a member today!

Enjoy the conference! We're looking forward to seeing you in San Francisco!
